Kidney Medicine Dissolves Gravel Stones

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root sells well with us because it invariably produces good results in kidney, liver and bladder troubles. We sold a dollar bottle to one of the inmates of our soldiers' home near here, and after using it he brought in about one dozen gravel stones some as large as a pea, which he had passed. He states that he obtained wonderful relief from the use of Swamp-Root.

ERNEST A. BROWN, Lafayette, Ind. Personally appeared before me this 28th of July, 1909, Ernest A. Brown, of the Brown Drug Co., who subscribed the above statement and made oath that the same is true in substance and in fact.

DAVID BROWN, Notary Public.

PURE BLOOD MAKES HEALTHY PEOPLE

Hood's Sarsaparilla surely and effectively removes scrofula, boils and other blood diseases because it drives out of the blood all the humors that cause these diseases. They cannot be successfully treated in any other way. External applications for their removal have proven almost useless, because they cannot drive out the impurities that are in the blood.

Hood's Sarsaparilla makes pure, rich blood, perfects the digestion, and builds up the whole system. The skin becomes smooth, clean and healthy. This great blood remedy has stood the test of forty years, insist on having Hood's, for nothing else acts like it. There is no real substitute. Get it to-day. Sold by all druggists.—Adv.

NORWAY CAREFUL NOT TO ABANDON ITS NEUTRALITY

Decides Not to Discontinue Treaty Which Guaranteed Its Territorial Integrity.

London, Feb. 1.—Reuter's Copenhagen correspondent quotes the Christiania Journal to the effect that the Norwegian foreign minister announced at a secret meeting of Parliament that the government had decided not to give notice to the signatory powers of discontinuance of the treaty of 1907. This treaty, guaranteeing the independence and territorial integrity of Norway, was signed by Great Britain, France, Russia and Germany, as well as Norway.

"This does not signify that the government has assumed a definite attitude in the matter," the Journal continues, "but merely that it considers the present moment inopportune for an act which might be wrongly interpreted as meaning that Norway was abandoning neutrality."

SAYS AUSTRALIAN WHEAT CROP WILL BE RECORD

London, Feb. 1.—Director Sturges of the Australian bank yesterday stated that reports showed the Australian wheat crop would be a record one. He estimated that the yield would be 150,000,000 bushels, of which 100,000,000 bushels would be available for export.

MORE MONEY FOR SECRET SERVICE

Lansing Asks House Foreign Affairs and Appropriations Committee for $100,000 to $200,000 More.

Washington, Feb. 1.—This government's international relations were informally discussed behind closed doors yesterday by Secretary of State Lansing with the House foreign affairs and appropriations committees. To request large increases in the department's funds was Lansing's principal object. The difficulties with the allies and the central powers, however, were also touched on. Lansing asked an increase in the state department's secret fund from $100,000 to $200,000. This is the money used at the president's discretion for confidential work abroad, for which no account is ever rendered. Lansing asked $150,000 for confidential work of consular officers, promoting commerce. An increase for maintenance of embassies, legations and consulates was also asked. He explained the unusual financial burden on American representatives acting for other nations abroad.

NOT A TRUST MADE PLAN

True Patriots Behind the Preparedness Campaign

MUNITION MAKERS ABSOLVED BY PRESIDENT

We Will Defend Because We Need Defense

Milwaukee, Feb. 1.—President Wilson threw down the gauntlet yesterday to opponents of national preparedness who have declared that the movement sprang from the desires of munition and armament manufacturers to make money.

"There are some things that are being said that I hope you will not believe," the president declared. "It is being said, among other things, that this agitation for preparation for national defense comes chiefly from those who are interested in supplying the government with the munitions of war and from those who are interested in supplying it with armament."

"Gentlemen, do not allow yourselves to be misled by statements of that sort. Anything that the government does somebody is going to make money out of, but the impulse for this thing does not come from those quarters. The impulse comes from men disinterested; men who know the actual circumstances of the war, and who know that these things are immediately necessary."

"If for my part have all along advocated and always shall advocate that the government as far as possible shall manufacture these things for itself, in order that at any rate it may control the prices at which these articles will be sold to the government. If it is necessary to protect ourselves against those who would make money out of the necessities of the nation there are adequate means of defending ourselves and we will use these means. But I don't believe the impulse comes from those quarters. There is patriotism lacking any more than there is patriotism lacking in other quarters."

The president's declaration was delivered from the rear platform of his private car at Racine, Wis., half an hour before he reached this city.

He came here to speak for national preparedness at 2:30 p. m. yesterday. Last night he addressed another meeting in Chicago.

The Athenian "Liturgy."

One of the most interesting cases of voluntary taxation is the ancient Athenian "liturgy," which meant something very different from the liturgy of today, the etymological meaning of the word being "public work." The liturgy was a special contribution made to the state by a wealthy citizen or group of citizens. There were ordinary liturgies, such as the provision of the chorus for a great tragedy, and extraordinary ones, such as the equipment or maintenance of a warship. The liturgy was fundamentally a tax, and it was often evaded by all sorts of shifts. But in the palmy days of Athens it was considered disgraceful for those upon whom it was imposed to do no more than the law exacted, and sometimes rich citizens would volunteer a liturgy from public spirit or to win popularity.—London Chronicle.

STOP CATARRH! OPEN NOSTRILS AND HEAD

Says Cream Applied in Nostrils Relieves Head-Colds at Once.

If your nostrils are clogged and your head is stuffed and you can't breathe freely because of a cold or catarrh, just get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm at any drug store. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic cream into your nostrils and let it penetrate through every air passage of your head, soothing and healing the inflamed, swollen mucous membrane, and you get instant relief.

Ah! how good it feels. Your nostrils are open, your head is clear, no more hawking, sniffing, blowing; no more headache, dryness or struggling for breath. Ely's Cream Balm is just what sufferers from head colds and catarrh need. It's a delight.—Adv.

A CHILD DOESN'T LAUGH AND PLAY IF CONSTIPATED

If Peevish, Feverish and Sick, Give "California Syrup of Figs"

Mother! Your child isn't naturally cross and peevish. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign little stomach, liver and bowels need a cleansing at once.

When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomach ache, diarrhoea, remember, a gentle liver and bowel cleansing should always be the first treatment given.

Nothing equals "California Syrup of Figs" for children's ills; give a teaspoonful, and in a few hours all the foul waste, sour bile and fermenting food which is clogged in the bowels passes out of the system, and you have a well and playful child again. All children love this harmless, delicious "fruit laxative," and it never fails to effect a good "inside" cleansing. Directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups are plainly on the bottle.

Keep it handy in your home. A little given to-day saves a sick child to-morrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," then look and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."—Adv.

KEEPING CUT FLOWERS.

Methods by Which the Fading Process May Be Delayed.

Roses, carnations and orchids have been found to keep three times as long if a small quantity of sugar be added to the water, writes Mabel H. Wharton of Oakland, Cal., to Popular Mechanics. A small lump of starch has also been found beneficial. Other flowers begin to bleed as soon as they are cut, and the precious sap running out of the stem causes the cells to collapse immediately. To prevent this the end of the stem must be quickly closed, and this is best done by searing in a flame or by placing directly in hot water.

The florists of California go so far as to boil the stems of the brilliant poinsettias or Christmas flowers, for which they are so famous. The stem is first struck through a large sheet of paper to prevent the steam from rising directly into the flower and injuring it.

Carnations and chrysanthemums will keep almost twice as long if placed in fresh water daily, and a small piece is clipped from the ends of the stems each time. While cutting this piece off keep the stem under water so that no air bubbles are allowed to enter the stalk and thus retard the upward flow of water.

If large headed flowers, such as chrysanthemums or peonies, are to be sent some distance insure their arriving in good condition by wrapping each blossom separately in waxed paper.

A Useless Advertisement.

An old man, well past sixty, entered the publication offices of the Book and Life and asked to be directed to the lost and found counter. At the proper department, he requested the insertion of the following "liner ad.":

LOST—About forty years ago—an opportunity. It is probably worth a few dollars to me, as I am curious to know what it might have done for me had I not been careless long ago.

The clerk read the advertisement and then looked pityingly at the old man.

"We'll insert your ad.," he said, "but it is my duty to inform you that there is hardly any use in putting it in. We have no records of any lost opportunities ever having been found."

The old man thought for a few minutes, then he said:

"Well, insert it anyhow. People will read it and start to thinking."

Then he went away.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Cross Eyed Mentally.

Do you ever start to say something and find yourself using the word you hadn't the faintest idea of using? Just a little cross eyed mentally, aren't you? Did you ever mean to jam your foot on the accelerator and slam it down on the brake instead? Have you ever put salt twice on the same plateful of food when one of the applications should have been pepper? Did you ever laugh at the wrong time at the theater, or sneeze unnecessarily at a funeral, or fall to sleep quietly in church, or solicitously inquire where So-and-so is nowadays when the poor chap has been dead six months? Sure you have. Everybody does it. We're all just a bit mentally cross eyed sometimes, and we don't look where it seems that we are looking. What we really need to look out for is not doing queer things too often. If we do there's no telling what may happen to us. We may get into the papers!—Springfield Union.

WHITE HOUSE LADIES.

They Wield Considerable Power, as a Rule, "Under the Rose."

Only those who have given the subject close consideration and have been familiar with it personally can have even a remote idea of the power of the women connected with the presidential administration, meaning the wives of the president, the vice president and the cabinet officers. This power of the women first began to be marked in President Andrew Jackson's time, and it has continued unabated up to the present hour. It is an unseen power. It is not proclaimed from the house-tops.

It takes some time for the wives of the cabinet officers to reach a fair footing with the wives of the president and vice president and among themselves. They come from different sections of the country and must accustom themselves to a vastly different environment, the official life of Washington. In a thousand little ways and in as many big ways they can make or mar, help or hurt, hasten or retard the policy of a presidential administration.

They raised old bob in Jackson's time by attempting to boycott the wife of a cabinet officer, Mrs. Eaton, but Old Hickory, though not a ladies' man himself, stood valiantly and gallantly beside Mr. and Mrs. Eaton and declared that the wives of his other cabinet officers shouldn't rule his administration—"No, not by the eternal!" Jackson's favorite phrase in negating a proposition.—Exchange.

Men Who Wear Feathers.

Among the strange tribes of men about whom little is known are the Chamaccos of the region about the upper Paraguay river.

Although the Chamaccos wear but little clothing, they excel in the art of making personal adornments from the feathers of birds. Their country abounds with birds of the most beautiful plumage, including parrots, toucans and trogons, whose feathers are dazzling in color; rheas with gray plumes, musk ducks of a glossy black color, egrets with feathers of pure white and spoonbills of a delicate pink.

All this wealth of color and graceful plumage is combined by the Chamaccos in a most artistic manner. Some of these savages walk their forest glades in colors more brilliant, if less ample, than any woman's dressmaker could produce.—Washington Star.

His Elaborate Efforts.

"Speech should beware of beginning his speech in too loud a voice," said Grouse. "If you start off with a yell, when the time comes to roar denunciation or about hosannas you will have no wind left with which to be emphatic. I once knew a man whose wife exhibited more than 300 love letters in court, which he had written her during a brief courtship of eleven weeks. He often wrote her six or more in one day, and his shortest epistle contained four pages. And yet before they had been married two months he had slapped her jaws so far around that when she wanted to talk into the telephone she had to back up to it. His excuse was that he had exhausted his affection in the course of the correspondence."—Kansas City Star.

Soy Beans a Human Food.

Soy bean flour may be used much the same way as cornmeal. Although this crop has been grown in America for a quarter of a century, says the Farm and Home, it has been used only for a stock feed, while in China and Japan it has been used for human food for many centuries.

Practically the only use made of soy bean flour so far in this country is in certain types of illness where it is desirable to limit the amount of starch fed the patient. Flour made from ripe soy beans, although rich in protein and oil, contains little or no starch. This, mixed with wheat flour, therefore increases the protein content and lowers the starch content, while the bread is very similar in appearance to ordinary wheat bread. When more than 25 per cent soy bean flour is used the character of the bread or cakes is materially altered.

Wanted the Test.

A western professor said one day that he could tell good soil by tasting it, and a man in the east end who saw the statement promptly packed a box and sent it to him by parcel post. He also inclosed this note:

"Dear Professor—I saw what you said about tasting soil and am sending a sample selected haphazard from my back yard. I wish you'd give it the palate test and tell me frankly what you think. I don't seem to have any luck with it myself. My cabbages came up without heads, my potatoes have been mistaken for chestnuts, my onions are seedless, and my corn looks like bird shot. Bite off a chunk and let me hear from you. Never mind about returning the balance. Keep it for dessert. Write soon."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.
